Why Utopia?

The camp is called Utopia because we the scouts wish to build a new and better society for one week in July. We are leaving our country behind in order to build our own society. We do this because we are tired of just talking about protecting our planet. Together we will prove that scouts can build a society where nature provides energy, materials and adventure. We will show that scouts can contribute in the struggle for a strong and viable planet.

Who can take part?

The jamboree is for scouts, rangers/rovers and scout leaders, boys and girls from 10 years and up from Norway and abroad. There will be a ranger/rover camp within the camp, with special program activities for this group, age 16 and up.

Åndalsnes

Åndalsnes is the center of Rauma municipality, situated in Romsdal, Norway. Rauma aims to be the world's best place for nature-loving people. This makes it a natural choice for a jamboree site. Åndalsnes is close to well known tourist attractions such as Trollstigen, Trollveggen, Romsdalshorn and Raumabanen (railway). Find out more about Åndalsnes and Romsdal on www.visitandsnes.com and www.romsdal.com.

How to get to Åndalsnes

Åndalsnes is about one hour's drive by bus/car from Ålesund and Molde, both with airports. To get there, you can go by plane via Oslo, Bergen or Trondheim. You can also travel to Åndalsnes by train from Oslo and Trondheim, provided you buy your tickets quite early.

Like to join?

Foreign guides and scouts are welcome to join. Read more about the jamboree, how to join and how get there at our webpage:
